

Games

Man looked for ways in which they could have happiness and they found many kinds of games and pieces thereof with which to enjoy
themselves

I am a lonely thing,
wounded with iron,
switten by sword,
sated with conflict,
weary of blades.

Please it you to wete that I sent your eldest wive to my lady Morlee to have knowledge what spor-
tye were brought in here howe in Kyritmore next folloying aftyr the decay-
me of my lord, here husband. And she sayd that here were non dys-
syngynngs, nor banquyns nor wyngyns, nor synngyns, nor non lowde dysportyns, but playng at the tableyns and schere and cardyns, weche dys-
portyns she sawe here follyns leve to play, and non odyr.

For me though

it better play.

I thought it a wonderful thing
that a thief in the darkness could consume a man's wisdom yet be no wiser.
